

Our students are confident, caring, creative,
and knowledgeable.

Our mission is to provide a quality education for students through an authentic belief in their natural talents, supported by a strong core curriculum, delivered by an active, experiential and joyful instructional practice, in a cooperative learning environment that considers cultural differences to be assets to the community.

Students at Emily Grey develop:

- Strong academic skills,
- Confidence in themselves,
- A passion for learning, and
- A sense of community and responsibility through service learning and environmental education.

Preparing children for the life
they are to lead in the world

Our diverse group of students learn together in a safe, multicultural community created by caring and effective teachers, nurturing staff, and involved parents.

A strong core curriculum

Emily Grey students are exposed to a broad range of historical, scientific, and cultural topics that are part of a curricular framework called the Core Knowledge Sequence.

The network of public, private, and charter schools using the Core

Knowledge curriculum are finding great success as measured both by standardized tests and by the students' enjoyment of learning.

A sense of community

The staff and teachers also understand the power of simple teaching techniques, such as the use of affirming statements like "My smart kids" or "My math genius" and how these types of statements can reinforce pleasure in learning and attending school.

Our staff share a commitment to nurturing a sense of community and responsibility in our students and we believe there are no greater learning opportunities than putting yourself in the service of others.

Volunteer activities, field trips, a school garden and a recycling policy will help our students to understand what it means to be part of a larger community.

Active, experiential, and joyful approaches to teaching

Using Accelerated Learning teaching approaches, our teachers address the social and emotional sides of learning. For example, we create interesting lessons by helping students to design their own games, and by integrating the visual and performing arts into all areas of the curriculum. Each classroom has several stations where students can reinforce their lessons through music, physical activity, art, or scientific exploration.
